Foreword

Education and development are closely related endeavors. This is the main reason why it is said that education is the key instrument in Ethiopia’s development and social transformation. The fast and globalized world we now live in requires new knowledge, skill and attitude on the part of each individual. It is with this objective in view that the curriculum, which is not only the Blueprint but also a reflection of a country’s education system, must be responsive to changing conditions.

It has been almost three decades since Ethiopia launched and implemented new Education and Training Policy. Since the 1994 Education and Training Policy our country has recorded remarkable progress in terms of access, equity and relevance. Vigorous efforts also have been made, and continue to be made, to improve the quality of education.

To continue this progress, the Ministry of Education has developed a new General Education Curriculum Framework in 2021. The Framework covers all pre-primary, primary, middle level and secondary level grades and subjects. It aims to reinforce the basic tenets and principles outlined in the Education and Training Policy, and provides guidance on the preparation of all subsequent curriculum materials – including this Teacher Guide and the Student Textbook that come with it – to be based on active-learning methods and a competency based approach.

In the development of this new curriculum, recommendations of the education Road Map studies conducted in 2018 are used as milestones. The new curriculum materials attempt to balance the content with students’ age, incorporate indigenous knowledge where necessary, use technology for learning and teaching, integrate vocational contents, incorporate the moral education as well as career and technical education as subjects in order to accommodate the diverse needs of learners.

Introduction

The English language in Ethiopia serves more as the medium of instruction in schools and universities. It plays a significant role in students' academic life. The grade 9 English Textbook is developed to satisfy the students' English language needs at the level and to serve them as a backdrop for their future academic career as they use the language for academic purposes. The minimum learning competencies (MLCs) expected of students are indicated in the Grade 9 English language Syllabus, and therefore, the language input as well as activities they perform are developed based on the MLC identified by the syllabus designers. The learning outcomes expected of students are built upon the MLC and constitute listening to a variety of texts at different levels (surface and deeper levels), interacting in English, reading and comprehending, analyzing, synthesizing, evaluating and interpreting ideas vis-à-vis their environment, getting meanings of words through different strategies, and mastery of selected grammatical elements appropriate to the level. The outcomes also embrace students' development of sentence, paragraph and essay levels writing. The students are expected to write accurate sentences, paragraphs, and essays with some level of fluency as they should balance accuracy and fluency in their use of the language.

The ten-unit English Language textbook for Grade 9 has specific unit objectives. Each of the units consists of six different parts: Listening Skills, Reading Skills, Vocabulary, Grammar, Speaking Skills, and Writing Skills organized in that order. The textbook is organized by placing the receptive skills before the productive skills, because it is presumed that the receptive skills as pre-requisites provide students with language inputs which are relevant to their language production.

The listening skills will be taught based on areas which are national and/ or international concerns, focusing more on national issues. The listening texts include topics such as urban life versus rural life, study skills, road accidents, Gambella national park, diversifying export earners through competition, poverty in Ethiopia, community services, infectious diseases, cultural diversity, human rights and democratic governance, and the concept of the internet. In these diversified areas students will listen to various texts and genres, they will develop their listening ability, get ideas about the issues they are introduced with, relate the ideas with their previous knowledge, and analyze, synthesize, evaluate and interpret the ideas with the environment they are living in. Students also learn vocabularies, and extend the ideas in the listening texts to their speaking and writing development. The main purposes of the lessons students learn can generally be two-fold: students' language skill development and their achievement of the expected competencies.

The reading passages are selected from different sources and they focus on life in a big city, learning strategies, traffic accidents, national park in Ethiopia, health benefits of gardening, the impact of poverty, HIV/AIDS, equality, equity and justice, and role of computers and internet in our lives. Students are required to understand the meanings of the reading texts deeply making interactions with the authors' thoughts and their experiences. Similar to the activities in the listening texts, vocabularies derived from the reading texts, extended speaking and writing activities are also included in the reading parts.

The vocabulary lessons constitute vocabulary from the listening and reading texts, phrasal verbs and word formation using affixes (prefixes and suffixes). The vocabulary is taught through the application of contextual understanding of meanings, consulting the dictionary and using other strategies. In teaching vocabulary, we focus more on the strategies students may employ to understand meanings by themselves. We believe the students should have this skill because vocabulary is important for them to develop their reading and listening comprehension, speaking, writing, spelling, and others. In brief, it is important for their English language development, communicating ideas, expressing their ideas in speaking and writing.

Concerning the grammar lessons, brief notes and many activities are provided for the students to help them master the grammar elements in focus. Many of the grammar lessons are presented in situations students can easily understand and apply: they are developed in simpler ways to enable the students to express even complex ideas. In other words, the grammar lessons are taught the way they help students effectively talk in the language. The grammar elements are taught linearly or cyclically. Some of the elements such as ‘adverbs of frequency’, ‘conditional sentences’, and ‘tenses’ appear cyclically, while the rest of the grammar elements appear only once in the textbook. The speaking and writing sections derive from the listening and reading activities, and other areas which are assumed to be important to deal with.

Dear teacher!

The authors and the other experts who participated in the Textbook development have exerted their efforts to provide quality English language education for the students. A number of activities in all the six sections of each unit are provided. We believe activity provision alone may not help much; it is you, the teacher, who should play the most important role in helping students learn better, develop their competencies and become value, knowledge and skill generating citizens. You need to help students earn the MLC and beyond, because the MLC is the threshold level for which we expect more advanced knowledge-base development among students. Therefore, much is expected from you in:

1. providing additional notes and activities,
2. helping them learn cooperatively through group organization,
3. promoting diverse skills such as interpersonal communication, problem-solving, creativity, self-confidence, accountability, knowledge and understanding, and application,
4. promoting the concept of ‘unity in diversity’,
5. developing indigenous knowledge and values,

6. varying your teaching approach to be responsive to the diverse needs of students,
 7. ensuring balance,
 8. making your classroom teaching inclusive: for physically-impaired students, and for sundry learning styles and strategies, as an example,
 9. helping students develop the language skills at their level, and
 10. ethically addressing ideas, opposing others, and respecting each other, social integration and others.

Dear teacher!

Cooperative learning through group engagement is very important. Many of the points raised above can be successfully realized through this method. Although you may have your own way of organizing groups, we also suggest the following as an alternative. In order to effectively engage group members, the group can be organized considering:

1. ability groups,
2. gender,
3. sight-impaired students (if there are any) to be assigned in different groups, and
4. the number of the group members (4 or 6 members are ideal).

Dear teacher!

In the Teachers' Guide we have included accurate and possible answers for some of the activities, and we have suggested directions for students' responses in essays and open-ended types of questions. We have also added some guidelines how you can direct some of the activities to students. However, we expect more from your creative approach to make your students develop 'whole personality'.

1.1 Listening Skills

Activity 1.1 Pre-listening questions

Dear teacher!

Pictures of a city and a rural area are given in order to help students activate their background knowledge about life in both areas. Then, help students brainstorm on the city and life conditions by getting into pairs. Read the sample expressions and information given. Then, make an individual student read each of the questions before starting the discussion.

Possible answers

1. In a city, there are many people, cars, restaurants, buildings, churches, noises, etc.

In a rural village, there are large open space, grass field, crops, animals, dust or mud, etc.

2. Where do you like to live in? Why?

I like to live in a city, because there are more things for a living.

3. What do you think is the title of the listening?

Urban Life versus Rural Life

Dear teacher!

Below is the listening passage prepared for the students. Please try to audio-tape the passage, but if it is not possible to audio-tape the listening text below, please read it twice with a moderate speed to the students so that they can answer the questions based on it. If you realize that the students haven't understood you after you have read it twice, you can repeat your reading the third time.

Urban Life versus Rural Life

[Article shared by Manish]

It is rightly said that God made the country and human beings made the town. In the villages, the people live in an open atmosphere. They get fresh air and sunlight. They inhale pure oxygen which they get from the trees and waving crops which grow in their fields.

As compared to the towns' people, the people in the villages lead a tension free life. There is not much noise in villages. In villages, people generally get fresh vegetables and pure milk they also consume lesser amount of fast food which is very harmful. There are, however, certain advantages which the urban people have over the villages. There are much better employment avenues in towns. The security system is also better in towns.

In towns, the people often do not feel bored, as they have several means of amusement and entertainment such as visiting different places of importance, a visit to the zoo, some museum or exhibition, etc. In towns, people get better education as there are so many schools, colleges, universities and libraries.

Better medical facilities are available in towns, as there are so many big hospitals and dispensaries there which are not available in villages. In towns we can have more variety of goods including food and wearing articles. We can get the food of our choice at hotels and restaurants. There are thousands of shops in towns to cater to our needs. Thus, in certain ways, villages are better while in others, towns are better.

Activity 1.2 Listening and filling in the blank spaces.*Answers

1. open atmosphere.
2. ... much noise....
3. ... employment avenues....
4. ... security system....
5. ...food ... wearing

Activity 1.3 Completing sentences based on the information in the passage.

1. I like to live in a town because I can get more goods to buy.
2. I prefer to live in a village to town because in a village, there are free spaces or fields for playing.
3. In villages, there are more tame animals (like cows, donkeys) unpaved roads, forests, farms and others. In towns, there are museums, cinema, hospitals and road networks, and too many cars.
4. In villages, there are challenges such as transportation and getting better health facilities. On the other hand, in towns there are challenges like getting fresh vegetables and free spaces.
5. In villages, we can find fresh vegetables, pure milk and natural food staffs; whereas in towns, there are better education, health facilities and more employment opportunities.

Activity 1.4. Answering questions*Possible answers

1. People migrate from rural to urban areas because they expect to get a better living (or facilities) in urban areas.

- 2. People in urban areas may face problems like housing, traffic problems (overcrowding), pollution, job opportunity, transport, etc.

Dear teacher!

Students are expected to offer different answers to each of the questions; and there is no right or wrong answers. Allow students to provide answers freely to help them speak and reflect ideas from their experiences. Please tell them that they should also learn from their friends' experiences, because they may have different experiences for they come from different areas. Please also appreciate their attempts. If you want to guide the students about their responses, please do it at the end of their attempts.

3. Sample paragraphs

- a) There are a number of problems people face in cities. First, living in urban areas (or city life) may be difficult to people because they may not have easy access to housing. Such people may be obliged to pay rents for houses, which are difficult for them. The people may not have adequate salary for their food and housing. The other problems are associated with lack of facilities they have expected when they migrate to urban areas. The difficulty occurs due to lack of money. The third problem is associated with pollution which usually occurs in cities compared to rural areas. Therefore, we can say that living in a city has a lot of problems.
- b) Living in rural areas has problems. One of the problems is the absence or shortage of facilities people require for living. The people lack, for instance, jobs other than farming, and transport and education facilities are not also easy to find. Moreover, rural people toil very much because they do not have any other means of farming than using their oxen. As a result, the people migrate to cities for a better life which also gives them a burden to their lives which are distinct from the types they used to have in rural areas.

Dear teacher!

The example paragraphs given above may not be adequate; so they should not be taken for granted as if they were the only paragraphs that could be developed. We advise you to allow students to write their own paragraphs, and then let them read them to class. If you find that it is time-taking to allow all to read their paragraphs, take a few students' paragraphs as samples and let others peer-read their paragraphs for peer-feedback. When you listen to the students' paragraphs, focus more on their ideas and try to give feedback (in the form of explanations) at the end about the grammar errors you heard students have committed repeatedly.

Students might have difficulty in developing paragraphs.

- a) You need, therefore, to understand their problem from their paragraphs; so, give them some guideline about how they can write a paragraph giving them sample/s.
- b) Another alternative is you can give them some guideline about how they can develop the type of paragraph in the task given before they attempt writing the paragraph.
- c) For other types of paragraphs which are not related to the current task, you can give them guideline about the type of paragraph required in the task

1.4 Grammar

In this Unit, students will learn about multiple grammar elements: tag questions, simple present, present continuous tenses, wh-questions using simple present and present continuous tenses, yes/no questions, and questions with auxiliary verbs. Dear teacher, you should provide different examples in each of them than the ones given in the students' book. Since it may be confusing for them to study multiple grammar elements, your support for them to understand and use the different grammar elements is very much required.

Man is the best creation of God, isn't he? He cannot fly in the sky, can he? Birds are a part of our environment. But they do not pollute our environment, do they? It is man who pollutes his environment, doesn't he? We should not pollute our environment, should we? Our people are not educated. If they are educated they will become conscious, won't they? Our people must be educated, mustn't they? Oh! The sun is already set. I am late for home, aren't I? I have to return now, haven't I?

Dear teacher!

Please advise students to check their answers in pairs to the tag questions in the above paragraph. Activity 1.11 requires students to discuss each other how the tag questions in 1.10 are formed. Therefore, please advise them to discuss how the tag questions are formed.

1.5 Speaking Skills

1.5.1 Speaking activity based on the reading passage

Activity 1.25 Speaking about the pictures using some verbs given.

Dear teacher!

Pictures of people with some household materials like TV are presented for students to help them speak about what they see using the verbs given. Therefore, the students will produce various types of accurate sentences. However, some model sentences that would serve for correcting students' speaking are provided below. Therefore, please help students speak more using not only the given verbs but also using their own. This will help them have more practices for their speaking development.

1. She reads her exercise book.
2. She watches TV program.
3. He plays football.
4. They read a book together.

Activity 1.26 Speaking about why and why not they want to live in rural areas.

Dear teacher!

The purpose of this activity is to help students speak confidently on explaining why they choose something to do. The information they need for giving reasons for choosing or not choosing to live in rural areas are given in the table. Then, the students are only required to organize the ideas in a way that they can present them logically and coherently. Therefore, while there are various ways of presenting their ideas, the following sample presentations are given so that you can let them know what gaps they can work on.

Sample 1: Supporting rural life

I like living in rural areas because there are several advantages. First, there are lots free spaces to use for playing, gardening, jogging, etc. In the rural areas you can also have your own private home with its compound to live in. Besides, there are beautiful scenery around and refresh yourself easily. Even, the pace of life is slower and more related. Moreover, most people live in close communities and they know each other. Therefore, generally, living in rural areas gives much more benefits like having sufficient places, owning private home, inspiring with beautiful geography and creating strong social bondage.

Sample 2: Ideas against rural life

I do not like living in rural areas because there are various disadvantages. First, you cannot find suitable road networks for moving from place to place. There is no hope for public transportation. You do not also have shops to buy goods. Besides, there is no access to better health centers. Even, the schools are located too far from the communities' surrounding. Moreover, you cannot get pure water and electricity. Therefore, living in rural areas is not advisable as it causes to lose comfortable road networks, more shops, better health centers, schools, pure water and electricity.

1.5.2 Pronunciation: Rising and falling intonations

Dear Teacher!

Please note that some explanations on rising and falling intonations are given in the students' textbook. If you think they need more you can give them additional notes from internet and get them practice on both intonation patterns. Some examples students will supply for each intonation is given.

A rising intonation (↗) pattern would be used mainly for yes/no questions and question tags showing uncertainty and requiring answers. It invites the speaker to continue talking.

Activity 1.27 Practicing intonation in pairs.*Dear teacher!

We understand that ‘intonation’ is difficult for the students to produce accurately in a very short time. Please encourage them to practice producing the following sentences and add your own sentences of the types for more practice.

1. Yes/no Question (Questions that can be answered by ‘yes’ or ‘no’.)

- Do you know your teacher’s J name?
- Have you done the J assignment?
- Do you have any J question?

2. Questions tags that show uncertainty and require an answer

- We have agreed, J haven’t we?
- You need bread, J don’t you?
- You’re a new student J aren’t you?

Falling intonation (1) is commonly found in wh-questions (information questions), confirmatory question tags.

Activity 1.28 Practicing intonation individually.

3. Wh - questions (requesting information.)

(questions beginning with ‘who’, ‘what’, ‘why’, ‘where’, ‘when’, ‘which’, and ‘how’)

- What is your 1 name?
- Who can answer this 1 question?
- Whose pen is 1 It?

4. Question Tags that are statements requesting confirmation rather than questions.

- He is so clever, doesn’t 1 he?
- We failed the test because we didn’t revise, did 1 we?
- It doesn’t seem to bother him much, does 1 it?

2.1 Listening Skills

Dear teacher!

Pictures on characterizing a good language learner are given in order to help students activate their background knowledge about learning English. Help students brainstorm on the various learning conditions or opportunities by getting them into pairs.

Activity 2.1 Characterizing a good language learner.

Possible answers (responses)

1. I think a good language learner can plan his/her time for study.
2. He/she can locate the learning resources.
3. In my view, a good language learner defines his/her learning goal, etc.

Dear teacher!

Below is the listening passage prepared for the students. Please try to audio-tape the passage, but if it is not possible to audio-tape, please read it twice with a moderate speed to the students so that they can answer the questions based on it. If you realize that the students haven't understood you after you have read it twice, you can repeat your reading the third time.

Study Skills

Many studies about language learning ask the question: What makes a good language learner? There are some things that good language learners do and some things they do not do. Here are some of the most useful suggestions from studies. Learners, for instance, should not be afraid of making mistakes. People often get things wrong; so, good language learners should notice their mistakes and learn from them. Learners should do activities in groups.

People use language to communicate with other people. A good language learner always looks for opportunities to talk with other students. They should also make notes during every class. Notes help you to remember new language. Look at your notes when you do your homework. Another important thing learners should do is use language using a dictionary. Good language learners often use dictionaries to check the meaning of words they don't know. They also make their own vocabulary lists.

Do you think there are also other things students should do to learn a new language, such as English? Yes, they should also think in the language you're learning outside the classroom. When you're shopping or walking down the street, remember useful words and phrases. Sometimes, when you're at home, say new words to practice your pronunciation. Learners should also engage in extra practice. They should test and improve their language, reading and listening skills with self-study material. Besides, they have to imagine themselves speaking in the language. Many good language learners can see and hear themselves speaking in the language. This helps their motivation. Above all, they have to enjoy the process of learning. Good language learners have fun with the language. Watch a TV series or film, listen to songs, play video games or read a book. It's never too late to become a good language learner.

Adapted from www.britishcouncil.org/learnenglish

Activity 2.2 Listening to the text and answering questions.

1. Shouldn't be afraid of making mistakes
2. a). notice their mistakes and learn from them.
b). do activities in groups
c). make notes/ refer to dictionary
3. useful words and phrases.
4. when they enjoy the process of learning and speak the language

Activity 2.3. Answering questions

1. How one studies his/ her subjects?
I make notes; I ask friends for help; I refer to a dictionary; and I further refer to books in the library, etc.
2. I try to get meanings of words from the contexts they are used, or I refer to the dictionary. I may also ask my teacher or my friends for meanings of words. Sometimes, I also google or surf the internet for meanings of words.

Dear teacher!

Students might give almost similar kinds of answers to the questions in the textbook. In case there are important points they haven't stated, please supply the missing points at the end. Beyond the expected answers to the questions, you can also extend the questions so that the students can give the advantages of the answers they have given. This will provide them with the opportunity to reason out ideas and develop their speaking ability.

3. Sample paragraph

When I am asked to do tasks with a friend or friends, I usually contribute ideas about the issue we discuss. If we are more in number in the group, we will choose a chairperson to lead us and a secretary to jot down all that we discuss. Then, we contribute ideas from our experiences in relation to the point of discussion. What we do in our discussion is raise any points freely, argue on the raised points and agree at the end. The main thing we do is we argue, understand each other and make decisions together. If we get difficulty in our decision, we may raise the point to whole class for further discussion. This is what we do when we accomplish tasks together with my partners.

Dear teacher!

The example paragraph given above may not be adequate; so it should not be taken for granted as if it were the only paragraph that could be developed. We advise you to allow students to write their own paragraph, and then let them read it to class. If you find that it is time-taking to allow all students to read their paragraphs, take a few students as samples and let others peer-read their paragraph for peer-feedback. When you listen to the students' paragraphs, focus more on their ideas and try to give feedback (in the form of explanations) at the end about the grammar errors you heard students have committed repeatedly.

Students might have difficulty in developing paragraphs.

- a) You need, therefore, to understand their problem from their paragraphs; so, give them some guideline about how they can write a paragraph giving them sample/s.
- b) Another alternative is you can give them some guideline about how they can develop the type of paragraph in the task given before they attempt writing the paragraph.
- c) For other types of paragraphs which are not related to the current task, you can give them guideline about the type of paragraph required in the task.

2.2 Reading Skills

Activity 2.4 Answering questions based on personal experiences.

2.4 Grammar

In this Unit, students will study addition connectors, sequence indicators and adverbs of frequency.

2.4.1 Connectors: addition markers

In this Unit, students will learn about addition and time order connectors. The addition connectors (markers) include and, also, besides, further, furthermore, too, moreover, in addition, then, of equal importance, equally important, and another; while the time order (sequence) connectors include words like at first, eventually, finally, first, firstly, in the end, in the first place, in the second place, lastly, later, next, second, secondly, to begin with.

Dear teacher!

Please tell students that connectors are different types and serve different functions as indicated in the following short note.

Note: There are different types of connectors. Some of them indicate contrasts; others show cause and effect, and still others indicate addition. There are also connectors that show comparison, time order, examples, generalization, summary, etc. Connectors serve as transition words and connect ideas of a sentence to another and even paragraphs.

Please brainstorm from students about which of the connectors students are familiar with. This helps you how much time you will spend supporting them in understanding the connectives. The following examples can help your students how the connectors are used. You can add more examples if you find students are not clear with how the connectors are used.

Examples

1. Reading books helps to learn new information, furthermore, it helps one to keep his or her brain fresh.

2.5 Speaking Skills

Activity 2.21 Students discussion on language learning experience.

Dear Teacher!

The purpose of this speaking activity is to help students practice speaking mainly on the issues related to the listening text, learning strategies. Please help students involve in the discussion in groups and develop their speaking skills. Therefore, questions 1 and 2 are given to help students speak about how they perceive a good language learner. The students may raise several things in relation to language learning using English, and encourage them to do so.

2.5.1 Pronunciation: Rising and falling intonations with Questions

Dear Teacher!

Please note that some explanations on ‘rising and falling intonations with Questions’ are given in the students’ textbook. If you think they need more you can give them additional notes and get them practice on both ‘rising and falling intonations’.

A. Intonation with Wh-Questions

How did you pronounce wh-questions? Did ever use intonation in your wh-questions knowingly? Take a look at the following questions. How do you produce them? Say the following questions to your partner and notice how you produce them. Do you feel that you produced them correctly?

1. What are you doing?
2. Where are you going?
3. How much does the pair of shoes cost?
4. Why are they so late?
5. Who was the girl you were talking to?

B. Intonation with yes/ no Questions

Take a look at the following yes/no questions. How do you say them? Say the following questions to your partner and notice how you produce them.

1. Did you finish your homework?
2. Do you like birds?
3. Are you coming to my birthday party?
4. Has she called you back?
5. Should he come to school next Saturday?

Speaking Skills

Do you feel that you produced them correctly? Read the following short note in the Box below about how you can produce wh-questions and yes/no questions.

Wh- questions are normally produced with falling intonation; whereas, yes/no-questions are normally said with rising intonation.

Activity 2.22 Pronouncing wh- and yes/no- questions with falling and rising intonations.

Now look at the following sentences.

1. And what do we have on Mondays?
2. When is the next English class?

Dear teacher!

Please ask students the questions below, and help them practice the sentences.

What do you think is the situation in which these questions are asked? We think the speaker and the listeners very well know about what they have on Mondays and when the next English class is. So, the questions are asked for the purpose of confirmation. In such kind of meanings, the wh-questions will have rising intonation. Practice the above sentences with your partner until you are sure you use the correct rising intonation.

Dear teacher! Please listen to the students' pronunciation of all the question forms when they practice them.

2.5.2 Speaking activity on 'Study Habits'

Activity 2.23 Discussion based on the given questions

Dear teacher!

The purpose of this activity is to help students practice speaking on 'study habits'. Therefore, based on the questions given, students could state several things and accept their discussion with appreciation. However, in order to guide the students' discussion and give feedback on their responses, some sample discussion frameworks are given for each question.

1. Before, you get students into discussion on question number 1, please make the students play the roles of Gemechu and Amare in the example dialogue in pairs. Then, students will share each other the problems they face in studying English.

1 Sample responses

*In my study, there are some problems I usually face... The first, , secondly, Thirdly...
Finally, ..*

I usually have difficulties when I study grammar/... First, ... Second, ... Last but not least...

2 Sample responses

One of the solutions for this problem (e.g. lack of vocabulary) I think is that we should develop the habit of using a dictionary.

Probably, we can use internet sources for getting reading materials on some issue as a solution for the problem i.e., lack of reading resources.

2. “The capacity to learn is a gift; the ability to learn is a skill; the willingness to learn is a choice.” – Brian Herbert, author.

As a teacher, you can accept various possible interpretations the students could give it to the quotation, but the idea can be understood as follows.

People have the natural element to learn and that is said to be capacity; people have also the potential that they can be learnt which is called ability. Besides, people have the interest to learn something which is said to be ‘choice’. Generally, people need to have the capacity, ability and choice for effective learning.

You can begin your discussion as follows.

I think what it meant for me is.... Probably, the other meaning is ... Besides,

3.1 Listening Skills

Activity 3.1 Pre-listening questions.

Dear teacher!

A picture of a car accident is given for the students in order to help them activate their prior knowledge about traffic accidents before they listen to the listening text. Then, help them brainstorm their ideas freely and appreciate their responses to the two questions 1 and 2.

Activity 3.2 Listening and answering questions

Dear teacher!

Below is the listening passage prepared for the students. Please try to audio-tape the passage, but if it is not possible to audio-tape the listening text, please read it twice with a moderate speed to the students so that they can answer the questions based on it. If you realize that the students haven't understood you after you have read it twice, you can repeat your reading the third time.

Road Accidents

Every year thousands of road users are injured, maimed for life or killed in road accidents. While it is bad enough on ordinary days, the accident rate increases during festive seasons when throngs of people pack the roads in their rash to go home. For families involved in accidents, the festive season can turn out to be tragedy instead of a joy.

The causes of accidents are many, but mainly they are due to human error. Recklessness, negligence, excessive speeding, poor driving skills, breaking of traffic rules and overloading contribute to the occurrence of accidents. Go to any housing estate and one can see underage children speeding around on motor cycles. They do not wear safety helmets and sometimes there are three or four of them on motor cycles belt for two. The law is bluntly ignored and the adults are to blame for allowing these young children to risk their lives. The behavior of adults is no better. Grown up but reckless road users are plenty on our roads. Road courtesy is almost non-existent. Mechanical problems and road conditions can also cause accidents, for example, brake failure, tyre blowout, bad weather, potholes and traffic congestion.

The prevention of road accident depends largely on the attitude of road users. They must respect the traffic loss such as keeping within speed limit, using safety helmet and belts and keeping their vehicles in roadworthy condition. They must also acquire and practice safe driving skills. There should be more awareness campaigns aimed at inculcating good driving habits. When road users ensure their vehicles are roadworthy, respect the law and think about their safety as well as that of others, then the number of fatalities can be reduced.

In short, a change of attitude for the better is required of road users. As long as they persist with their present bad road habits, the incidence of road accidents can only worsen.

Dear teacher!

The pedagogy we have suggested for activities 1.3 and 2.3 are also applicable to the activities from 4.3 to 10.3. We advise you to make use of the suggestions we have provided in 1.3 and 2.3 for the rest of the activities in a similar fashion.

- 3. Writing a short paragraph about the damages a car accident causes to society

Sample paragraph

A car accident can cause injuries on human body. The common injuries include traumatic (shocking and painful) brain injuries, and spinal cord injuries which may result in paralysis. Other injuries comprise burns and internal injuries and broken bones. The accident may also cause fractures, such as wrist, arm, leg, collarbone and rib fractures. Careful driving saves people from these injuries; therefore, drivers and road crossers or pedestrians should be careful and practice safety measures.

Reading Skills

Dear teacher!

The pedagogical suggestions we have provided for the sample paragraphs in activities 1.3 and 2.3 are also applicable to the pedagogy you can employ for the paragraph writing activities from 4.3 to 10.3. Modal verbs have different meanings in different contexts. For instance, the word 'shall' can be used to express willingness, and suggest in different contexts. Please explain the different meanings, their negative and question forms of the modal verbs based on the notes and examples given in the textbook.

☰ Summary notes

Modal verbs express ideas such as future ideas, permission, possibility, prediction, speculation, deduction and necessity, etc.

Dear teacher!

You can find the summary of the functions of some of the modal verbs with examples in a Table in the students' book. Please advise the students to do the activity 3.10 individually; and then ask them about the meanings of the sentences. Please give them the meanings of the sentences accepting or improving students answers.

You should also be a model to students; that is, both your students and you should seriously take safety measures.

3.4.3 Adverbs of frequency

In Unit 2, the students have learned about the adverbs of frequency. They studied how always, usually, often, occasionally, seldom, sometimes, rarely, and never are used.

Activity 3.16 Constructing own sentences using words of frequency.

The above consecutive activities wanted students to identify the adverbs of frequency in contexts. Dear teacher, please make sure that the students have identified them very well with their meanings. In this activity, students are required to construct at least five sentences of their own using the different adverbs of frequency. It is clear that their sentences vary; however, you should accept and appreciate their sentences as far as they are correctly constructed. After they have completed constructing sentences, please advise them to discuss their sentences with their partners so that they can evaluate each other's sentences. Then, please allow few students to read their sentences for whole class discussion. Sample answers are included to you.

Examples

- 1 My sister Zinash often goes to church, while Fatuma only sometimes goes to the mosque.
- 2 Zeberga rarely visits historical places, but he usually spends his time watching football.
- 3 Students always take the pedestrian when they walk to school and they never encounter traffic accidents.

Dear teacher! Please help students develop such kinds of sentences of their own and discuss their sentences in pairs. Please also get confirmation from students that they have understood the adverbs of frequency very well, and can develop sentences of their own using them without difficulty.

Activity 3.17 Underlining the adverbs of frequency.

- Reporter: So, Tadesse, you're majoring in Journalism, right?
- Student: Yes, that's correct. I'm graduating next June, and I'm looking for jobs now.
- Reporter: It's never too early to do that!
- Student: I know! So I'd like to ask you a few questions about what it's like to work for a newspaper.
- Reporter: Sure, go ahead.
- Student: Well, my first question is a basic one. Do you pretty much do the same thing every day?
- Reporter: No, not really. I rarely do the same thing from one day to the next.
- Student: Could you explain that a little bit more?
- Reporter: Well, I mean that I always have a story that I'm working on, but the stories are always different, so I never see the same people. I visit different people, go to different places, and do many different things. My job has a lot of variety.
- Student: How often are you in your office?
- Reporter: Well...some of the time... I mean, my computer is there, and that's where I write my stories I go interview people in their homes and offices. Actually I spend a lot of time in my car going to and from interviews.
- Student: How do you stay in touch with the newspaper then?
- Reporter: Oh, I always take my cell phone with me.
- Student: Do you usually have a laptop with you, too?

- Reporter: No. I don't like to use laptop when I am interviewing'. I sometimes take notes on paper, but I usually use a little voice recorder. Then I type my stories as soon as I get back to the office.
- Student: So you don't use email much.
- Reporter: Oh, yes, I do. I always check my email before and after lunch, and morning, again when I get to the office, before and after lunch, and again before I go home in the evening.
- Student: Wow, that's a lot! Do you check your email on weekends, too?
- Reporter: Yes, I usually check my email on weekends. I will answer personal emails, but I have a rule that I never answer business emails on the weekend or a holiday.

Activity 3.19 Discussing the causes and solutions of traffic accidents.

Dear Teacher!

The purpose of this activity is to help the students express their ideas about the causes and solutions of traffic accidents. Encourage them to speak as much as possible on the issue including the following ideas and expressions.

- Tewabe: What do you think is the reason for that?
- Regassa: Because, I think most of these accidents are caused due to drivers and road users' fault. They do not give attention to the traffic rules. Even, the roads themselves could cause accidents as they are too narrow and rugged. ...
- Tewabe: What must the government do to solve this problem?
- Regassa: Well, education is one solution. Lots of awareness creation work must be done. Moreover, the traffic police must follow closely the traffic flows and strict measures or punishment should be given to those who break the rules and regulations.
- Tewabe: What about the road users?
- Regassa: The road users also are responsible for the accidents. They have to be cooperative and respect the traffic rules. They need to be more aware of their responsibility as road users....
- Tewabe: The roads themselves also cause traffic accidents, don't they?
- Regassa: Yes, they do. We should take care of our roads and immediate maintenance must be done as much as possible.

More extensions of the dialogue could be possible.

3.6 Writing Skills

Writing informal letters

Letter writing is an important skill to develop. Written communication in both the formal and personal matters is crucial and so it is necessary to develop a skill for letter writing. Here we will focus on how to write informal letters.

Informal letters are written to close acquaintances of the writer such as friends, family and relatives. They are also written in informal and person tone with no set format. However, there is a general pattern (format) given below.

Letter writing

Two example informal letters are included in the students' book. Based on the lessons they have learned, students are expected to do the activity below. Dear teacher, since students may have problems doing the activity, please help them until they are able to write their own letter.

Activity 3.21 Identifying the letter parts and writing a similar letter.

If you realize that the students haven't understood you after you have read it twice, you can repeat your reading the third time.

Gambella National Park

Gambella National park is located 850 km west of Addis Ababa. It was established as a protected area in 1973 to conserve a diverse assemblage of wildlife and unique habitats. Although not technically in the Rift Valley, Gambella National Park lies along another of the country's important rivers: the Baro. Near the town of Gambella, Gambella National Park, is one of Ethiopia's least developed parks and has no facilities. Nevertheless, the large conservation area contains many species not found elsewhere in the country, such as the Nile lechwe and the white-eared kob. Roan antelope, topi, elephant, buffalo, giraffe, and the unusual whale-headed stork are also to be found here.

Originally the park was created for protection of extensive swamp habitat and its wildlife. Located on the Akobo river system, it hosts several wildlife not found elsewhere in Ethiopia. The banks of the baro are rich in birdlife and thus give visitors an extra advantage. With its total area of approximately 50,600 hectares, it is the largest protected area in the country. Its northern boundary is formed by the Baro River. To the south of the park is the Gilo River flows from Gog to Tor in a northwesterly direction.

The landscape of Gambella is low and flat with altitude ranging from 400 to 768 masl. The average altitude is around 500 meters above sea level.

The people of this area are the Anuak and the Nuer. Mainly fisher folk - but also cattle herders - the Anuak and Nuer are extremely handsome, with dark, satiny complexions. Both men and women favour a style of decorative scarification on the chest, stomach, and face; and often boast heavy bone bangles, bright bead necklaces, and spikes of ivory or brass thrust through a hole pierced in the lower lip and protruding down over the chin.

Unaffected by the ways of the modern world, these interesting people remain as remote, unchanged, and beautiful as the land in which they live.

4.4.2 Conditional type 1 sentences

Dear teacher!

Conditional sentence type 1 differs from the zero conditional in that the verb tenses are simple present and future tenses in the subordinate and main clauses. So, please give the students some explanations about the two conditional sentences.

If the students do not have any knowledge of main (independent) and subordinate clauses, please give them some explanations based on the short notes we have provided below. Ask students if they know what clauses are, and how they are formed. Let them also discuss the clauses based on the following examples.

Examples

- 1 When I was in the rural areas, I used to help my parents on the farm.
- 2 What she has said about studying hard is important for us.
- 3 People who live in the urban areas in Ethiopia have more internet access than those who live in rural areas.

For example, the first and the third sentences have two or more clauses:

1. a) When I was in rural areas,
b) I used to help my parents on the farm.
2. a) people have more internet access.
b) who live in urban areas.
c) who live in rural areas.

Dear teacher!

Please tell the students that the sentence parts are called clauses, which are classified into subordinate and main clauses. The subordinate clauses are:

1. ‘when I was in rural areas’, (Adverbial time clause)
2. ‘what she has said about studying hard’, (Noun clause)
3. ‘who live in rural areas’, and (Adjectival/ relative clause)
4. ‘who live in urban areas’, (Adjectival/ relative clause)

while the other part in each sentence is a main clause. These subordinate clauses are categorized under adverbial, noun and adjectival clauses. You don’t have to go deep into the classification and the different types of clauses. They are mentioned here merely to show main and subordinate clauses because you may speak about them repeatedly in this Unit, and units 5 and 7.

Activity 4.14 Completing the Conditional Sentences (Type I) by putting the verbs into the correct form following the examples above.

- 1 If you send this letter now, she will receive it tomorrow.
- 2 If I do this test, I will improve my English.
- 3 Senait will go shopping if she has time in the afternoon.
- 4 Solomon will go to Bahir Dar next week if he gets a cheap flight.
- 5 If they don’t study harder, they will not pass the exam.
- 6 If it rains tomorrow, I will not have to water the plants.

Ethiopia: Diversifying Export Earners via Horticulture Sector Competitiveness

The higher management of the Ministry of Agriculture and other stakeholders recently held discussion on options of expanding the horticulture investment and the national project of boosting avocado production in areas with potential and suitable climate.

Ethiopia has a great opportunity for horticulture development due to the favorable climatic conditions, fertile soils, huge irrigation potential and affordable manpower.

The sector has attracted a significant amount of domestic and foreign investment. Ethiopia's horticulture products have had also a chance to penetrate into the international market in the past two decades.

One of the major focus areas of the recent discussion was way of tapping the huge potential in the sector and the performance so far. It was also mentioned on the occasion that there are a number of natural and socio-economic enabling factors that can give the horticulture sector competitive advantages in the international market. Besides the abundant potential, the geographical proximity of the country to major international markets (such as the Middle East and Europe) put the country in an advantageous position.

The sector is one of the five largest contributors of export income in 2018/19 earned 315.14 million USD. In this regard, floriculture and the expanding vegetable, fruits, and herbs subsectors contributed 79 and 21 percent of the export revenue respectively. During that time, the horticulture sector has created some 200,000 jobs.

In addition, the fact that Ethiopian Airlines gives standardized cargo service is another factor that is attractive for investors to invest in the lucrative sector. Currently, Ethiopia has over 57 cargo and 101 passenger destinations around the world.

The government also provides investors in this sector with a number of incentives including tax exemption and duty-free importation of machinery, construction materials, spare parts, raw materials, and vehicles. The government has also facilitated loan access from the Development Bank of Ethiopia and access to land supply for free whose lease extends up to 30 years.

Activity 5.3 Answering questions

 - Investors prefer Ethiopia for horticulture because it has a) diverse agro-climatic zones, and b) long-growing seasons which are favorable for growing fruits, vegetables, flowers, spices and herbs.
2. Writing two to three sentences about the advantages and disadvantages of horticulture in Ethiopia

Advantages

- a) Horticulture is good to mitigate urban temperature.
- b) Horticulture reduces (attenuates) flood and pollution in cities.
- c) Horticulture preserves biodiversity by growing garden crops, fruits, vegetables and ornamental plants.
- d) Horticulture enables habitat restoration.
- e) Horticulture does not need broad area to grow.

Disadvantages

- a) Fruits, vegetables and flowers are easily infected by pests and diseases.
- b) In Ethiopia, there is insufficient infrastructure for horticulture.
- c) In Ethiopia, there is a serious shortage of skilled labor to grow horticulture.
- d) In Ethiopia, many people do not have adequate money to grow horticulture.

3. Sharing sentences with a partner and organizing sentences into a paragraph.

Horticulture has advantages and disadvantages in Ethiopia. It is advantageous because it mitigates urban temperature and attenuates flood and pollution. It is also important for biodiversity preservation and habitat restoration. Horticulture, however, has challenges or disadvantages because fruits, vegetables and flowers are easily infected by pests and diseases. The other disadvantage is the insufficient infrastructure and shortage of skilled labor to grow horticulture in cities and towns. Furthermore, people lack money to grow vegetables. People, however, have to be aware that the advantages are more than the disadvantages; therefore, they have to practice using horticulture in their gardens.

Let the students know that a comma will be included at the end of the subordinate clause if it comes before the main clause in the sentence. In all the answers given, the word ‘would’ is used to form a modal perfect. Please inform students that the modal verbs ‘should’, ‘could’ and ‘might’ can also be used substituting ‘would’.

The third type of conditional can be written or spoken using inversion method; that is, excluding ‘if’ as in the following examples.

Examples

- 1 If you had studied for the test, you would have passed it.
 - Had you studied for the test, you would have passed it.

Dear teacher!

Activity 6.2 Listening and answering questions.

Dear teacher!

Please try to audio-tape the passage, but if it is not possible to audio-tape the listening text, please read it twice with a moderate speed to the students so that they can answer the questions based on it. If you realize that the students haven't understood you after you have read it twice, you can repeat your reading the third time.

Poverty in Ethiopia

Poverty has been a societal problem since times immemorial. It is a situation where an individual is unable to purchase basic necessities such as food, clothes, and shelter. Moreover, these individuals sustain themselves on a single meal a day since they can't afford more. They may engage in begging since they cannot earn money any other way. Sometimes, these individuals may scavenge rotten food from a dumpster near a hotel or a restaurant just to satisfy their hunger. They may sleep on the pavement or park benches on clear nights. On rainy days, they may sleep under bridges or any other indoor shelters.

How is Poverty Caused?

There are a lot of socio-economic variables that influence poverty. First and foremost is the unequal distribution of wealth. This is compounded by corruption and the ever-increasing population of the country. The next influential factor that causes poverty is illiteracy and unemployment. These two factors go hand-in-hand because, without proper education, unemployment is sure to follow. Most of the people under the poverty line have no marketable or employable skills required by the industries. In case these individuals do find a job, most of these pay extremely low wages, which is insufficient to support oneself or lead a family.

Effects of Poverty

When individuals are unable to afford basic necessities for life, other undesired consequences follow. For instance, health care becomes impossible to afford. This means the individual is at an increased risk of diseases and infections. Sometimes, these individuals also resort to unfair means to obtain money – such as robbery, murder, assault, and rape.

Solutions to End Poverty

Poverty is not a problem that can be resolved over a week or a year. It requires careful planning from the government to implement relevant policies that cater to the population falling below the poverty line. Another important factor affecting poverty is illiteracy and unemployment.

This issue can be tackled with one stone – i.e., to provide education and financial support. Access to education, especially providing means to pursue higher education increases the employability of individuals. This directly helps to alleviate poverty as the individual can start earning. Therefore, one of the most effective tools to combat poverty is education.

Listening skills

In conclusion, poverty in Ethiopia may remain for another decade or so. However, there are strategies that help to gradually alleviate the problem.

Community Services

Community service is a very important factor when it comes to bettering your society. Through my own experiences and observations, I have come to support my opinion on this issue.

My experience that supports this theory involved my job last summer of 2004. I paced around the house for a while. Finally, I decided to sit down and read the newspaper. There was a section on the community which contained a list of volunteer activities. They ranged from helping in soup kitchens to helping as an electrician.

I called a number and decided to spend my time taking care of the grocery shopping for an elderly handicapped woman. She has since become a good friend. Finally, I was spending my time having fun. I was making a difference in one woman's life. It may not have paid in dollars. The experience and pleasure I gained was more valuable to me than any amount of money I could have earned. Even more significant is the value and importance of community service in our society. Without community service in our society, many people would not know the importance of charity.

In conclusion, I believe that choosing to help your community through community service should be very important to you. It is also important to the people around you. I feel that helping in your community to benefit others will bring you good things. You will also make the person you helped feel cared about.

Grammar:

In the dialogue about different inventors, the relative clauses included are:

- | | |
|--|---|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • who I admire. • which greatly influenced the world • who we admire. • that I admire | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • that I admire • who made iPhone and iPad • whose radios helped the world a lot. • who won Nobel Prize in one report. |
|--|---|

Dear teacher!

At this stage, students should be aware of how relative clauses are formed using relative pronouns. So, please give them a brief explanation about the different relative pronouns, how they can form relative clauses. You should give them examples how the relative pronouns can help combine sentences forming relative clauses. Examples are given to you below.

 - a) The man is my friend.
 - b) The man works at Sodere.
 - c) The man who/ that works at Sodere is my friend.

2.
 - a) The horse is expensive.
 - b) I am pointing at the horse.
 - c) The horse which/ that I am pointing at is expensive.

Please add more examples that show how the relative pronouns stand for the subject and object cases and which relative pronouns are used for humans and non-humans; and how the relative clauses are formed. What are the functions of the relative clauses? Explain in detail about the functions of the clauses in the sentences produced.

Activity 7.9 Selecting the appropriate relative pronoun and filling in the blank spaces in sentences.

- | | | | |
|----------------|----------|-----------------|-----------|
| 1. which/ that | 4. where | 7. which | 10. which |
| 2. whom/that | 5. whose | 8. whose | |
| 3. whose | 6. which | 9. whose/ which | |

Dear teacher! The word 'that' can be used in place of 'which', 'who' and 'whom' as far as the relative clause is a defining relative clause. We have given you examples in numbers 1 and 2.

Activity 7.10 Matching sentence parts in Column A with the relative clauses in Column B.

- | | | |

| 3. c | 8. k | 13. b |
| 4. a | 9. j | |
| 5. e | 10. f | |

Dear teacher!

Students may have difficulties to understand the defining and non-defining relative clauses. Would you please explain about the two types of clauses with more examples than given in the students' book? In Activity 5.10 below, the students will join sentences forming defining and non-defining relative clauses. Ask students why they have decided some of the clauses are defining and others non-defining. If you find that they haven't understood the two types of relative clauses, please give them additional examples with explanations. You can also give them additional activities for more understanding.

Grammar:

a) Relative pronouns used in defining relative clauses

Activity 7.11 Join each of the pairs of sentences into one forming defining or non-defining relative clauses. The first two are done for you.

1. The man was late. Duressainvited the man.
The man whom Duressa invited was late.

Developing countries and problems they face

There are the basic needs which developing countries lack in part or in total. The basic needs include food, water, housing, health, education and work. Food is a basic need because food helps people grow and develop. It gives us energy to keep us health and work. Without the right amount of food or the right kinds of food, people suffer from malnutrition which can result in death. At least one in eight of the world's population does not have enough to eat. Water, clean, safe drinking water is essential for life. It is vital for the control of diseases such as diarrhea, typhoid and cholera. About 80% diseases are from dirty, unsafe drinking water.

Housing is a major problem, which can affect the developing countries because more and more people in developing countries are drawn to cities in search of work and a better life. The cities getting overcrowded and the supply of affordable housing in the cities does not match the population growth so there is a serious lack of houses, so in developing countries there are nearly more than half of the population living in shanty towns.

Health care is important to 'ensure a state of complete physical, mental and social well-being and not merely the absence of disease or illness. 70% of the population in developing countries does not have access to any organized health care.

Education is another problem in poor countries. There are only four adults in ten who can read and write and less than one in four children go to secondary school. Education is a very important basic to the development of a nation.

To solve the problems of basic needs, people in developing countries should work hard cooperatively to ensure their basic needs are satisfied.

8.1 Listening Skill

Activity 8.1 Pre-listening questions

Dear teacher!

A pictures of illness is given to the students in order to help them activate their prior knowledge about disease before they listen to the listening text. Please help them brainstorm their ideas freely and appreciate their responses to the pre-listening questions 1 and 2.

Activity 8.2 Listening and answering questions

Dear teacher!

Below is the listening passage prepared for the students. Please try to audio-tape the passage, but if it is not possible to audio-tape the listening text, please read it twice with a moderate speed to the students so that they can answer the questions based on it. If you realize that the students haven't understood you after you have read it twice, you can repeat your reading the third time.

Occurrence of Infectious Diseases

Epidemiology is the study of the occurrence of disease in populations. Epidemiologists are concerned not only with infectious diseases, but also with noninfectious diseases such as cancer and atherosclerosis, and with environmental diseases such as lead poisoning. These professionals work to prevent or minimize the impact of diseases in the population. Their work may include such activities as identifying unusually high incidences of a particular disease, determining the effectiveness of a vaccine, and calculating the cost effectiveness of various means of controlling disease transmission. Occasionally, epidemiologists act as “detectives” who track down the cause of a “new” disease and mode of transmission, and help organize various health care workers to bring the disease under control.

Modes of transmission

Infectious agents may be transmitted through either direct or indirect contact. Direct contact occurs when an individual is infected by contact with the reservoir, for example, by touching an infected person, ingesting infected meat, or being bitten by an infected animal or insect. Transmission by direct contact also includes inhaling the infectious agent in droplets emitted by sneezing or coughing and contracting the infectious agent through intimate sexual contact. Some diseases that are transmitted primarily by direct contact with the reservoir include ringworm, AIDS, trichinosis, influenza, rabies, and malaria.

Indirect contact occurs when a pathogen can withstand the environment outside its host for a long period of time before infecting another individual. Inanimate objects that are contaminated by direct contact with the reservoir (for example, a tissue used to wipe the nose of an individual who has a cold or a toy that has been handled by a sick child) may be the indirect contact for a susceptible individual. Ingesting food and beverages contaminated by contact with a disease reservoir is another example of disease transmission by indirect contact. The fecal-oral route of transmission, in which sewage-contaminated water is used for drinking, washing, or preparing foods, is a significant form of indirect transmission, especially for gastrointestinal diseases such as cholera, rotavirus infection, cryptosporidiosis, and giardiasis.

These modes of transmission are all examples of horizontal transmission because the infectious agent is passed from person to person in a group. Some diseases also are transmitted vertically; that is, they are transmitted from parent to child during the processes of reproduction (through sperm or egg cells), fetal development, or birth. Diseases in which vertical transmission occurs include AIDS and herpes encephalitis (which occurs when an infant contracts the herpes simplex type II).

Activity 8.3. Answering questions

1. Discussing the types of common diseases with a partner.

Possible answers

- a) Malaria----- which is transmitted by mosquitoes
 - b) HIV/AIDS--- caused by uncontrolled sexual intercourse, virus, etc.
 - c) Diarrhea ----- caused by bacteria
 - d) The students can also discuss tuberculosis, diabetes, blood pressure, etc.
2. Writing a paragraph about the major causes of HIV/AIDS & COVID-19 and their prevention mechanisms.

Sample paragraph

HIV/ AIDS and COVID-19 are caused by viruses. HIV/AIDS spreads through sexual contact, illicit injection, sharing needles, contact with infected blood, from mother to child and breast feeding. COVID-19 affects the respiratory system. It is transmitted through droplets and small airborne particles containing the virus. Sprayed contaminated fluids in the eyes, nose or mouth also spread the disease. Both HIV/AIDS and COVID-19 are fatal, and no cures have been so far found. Therefore, we have to be careful not to be victimized by either of them.

4. A new method suggested for the prevention of HIV/AIDS prevalence is vaccine.

8.4.2 The Present Perfect Continuous Tense

Dear teacher!

In the next two consecutive activities, students are required to provide the present perfect and present perfect tenses of the verbs in brackets. In some cases, there may be position changes of some words, and you should explain why the change occurs. For instance, if you see number 4, the word 'already' is shifted to be placed between the two verbs. There are also cases when the students might add the word 'not' as in numbers 2 and 7 as examples. So, please explain why this happens to the students.

Activity 8.11 Completing the paragraph changing the verbs in parentheses into either present perfect or present perfect progressive tense.

The professor is letting him make up the final exam next week. He (3) has already taken the course, so he (4) has been helping Alemu study for the exam. He (5) has already turned in his food safety paper. He (6) has been working hard on his food safety paper, but (7) he hasn't finished it yet. Similar to Activity 8.10, Activity 8.11 also requires students to supply either the present perfect or present perfect continuous tenses of the verbs in brackets. Please ask students why they choose the tense form, and give them explanations if they do not give the right reason for their choice. Dear teacher, would you please give them some exercise on the words 'since' and 'for'; the examples we gave them may not be enough for them to master about their uses.

8.6 Writing Skills

Dear teacher! If you feel that the points the students include in their writing below are too many, you can reduce some of the elements.

Activity 8.16 Write an essay about the uses of the internet based on the information in the diagram. A sample related essay is given to you.

Sample Essay: Importance of the Internet

The last few years have witnessed heavy reliance on the internet. This has been because of multiple advantages that it has to offer – for instance reducing the work stress and changing the face of communication most importantly. If we take the current scenario, we cannot ignore how important the Internet is in our everyday lives. It is now indeed a challenging task to visualize a world without the internet.

Writing Skills

One may define the internet as a large library composed of stuff like – records, pictures, websites, and pieces of information. Another sector in which the internet has an undeniably important role to play is in the field of communication. Without access to the internet, the ability to share thoughts and ideas across the globe would have also been just a dream.

9.1 Listening Skills

Activity 9.1 Pre-listening questions

Dear teacher!

A pictureshowing cultural diversity is given to the students in order to help them activate their prior knowledge about cultural diversity, human rights and democracy before they listen to the listening text. Then, help them brainstorm their ideas freely and appreciate their responses to the pre-listening question.

Activity 9.2 Listening and answering questions

Dear teacher!

Below is the listening passage prepared for the students. Please try to audio-tape the passage, but if it is not possible to audio-tape the listening text, please read it twice with a moderate speed to the students so that they can answer the questions based on it. If you realize that the students haven't understood you after you have read it twice, you can repeat your reading the third time.

Cultural Diversity, Human Rights and Democratic Governance

It is argued throughout this report that respect for cultural diversity contributes to the dignity of each individual, group and community. Rights and freedoms are not exercised in a vacuum but are embedded within a social context. All rights and freedoms have a cultural dimension that contributes to their effective exercise. It is precisely this dimension that forms the link between the individual, the community and the group, which grounds universal values within a particular society.

Human rights are universal because they belong to all of humanity. This is the sense intended in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UN, 1948), which acknowledges that everyone, as a member of society, should exercise all rights ‘indispensable for his dignity and the free development of his personality’ (Art. 22).

Although sometimes portrayed as challenging to social cohesion, cultural diversity is, on the contrary, an enabler of dialogue and mutual enrichment and thus a source of economic, social, political and cultural creativity. Democratic governance presupposes forms of government and modes of decision-making that take account of the multicultural composition of contemporary societies and their wide variety of beliefs, projects and lifestyles. In promoting a more inclusive form of governance, the management of cultural diversity can turn a societal challenge into a democratic strength and thereby contribute to the establishment of that culture of human rights and peace to which UNESCO and the United Nations are committed.

Answers to the blank spaces

- 1 ...effective exercise.
- 2 ...the community ... the group.
- 3 ...belong to
- 4 ...economic, social, political ... cultural creativity.
- 5 ... decision making....

9.3 Answering questions

1. Human rights constitute various forms of rights such as the right to life and liberty, freedom from slavery and torture, freedom of opinion and expression, the right to work and education, etc.
2. Cultural diversity could benefit our development first through maintaining peace and stability if there are dialogues among societies. Secondly, maintaining cultural diversity helps preserve economically viable values and culture that could facilitate development. Thirdly, cultural diversity promotes creativity of individuals so that development will be facilitated. Generally, cultural diversity would accelerate the society's development given that there is mutual respect and understanding.

3. Sample paragraph:

Human rights and freedom of a society bring about opportunities and challenges. They may provide societies with opportunities of having free interaction and mutual understanding that could facilitate societal unity and cooperation. Shared views and values developed and sustained in societies result in a sense of solidarity and unity that requires a nation for peace and development. Human rights and freedom also encourage innovation and new way of life that may grant people more happiness and entertainment. However, there are obvious challenges we may face because of human rights and freedom. For example, several groups of people would become more relaxed and negligent to societal values which are important for societal identity and religious festivity. A globalized culture that disregards local norms and traditions that are important for healthy co-existence of communities will destroy or dominate everything of the societies. Indigenous ways of life and societal identity will be threatened and global values that promote greediness and competitiveness on market economy will be prevailed other than humanitarian elements such as cooperation, charity, brotherhood and religiousness. Generally, if they are not addressed strategically and thoughtfully, human rights and freedom induce many challenges; in stead of opportunities that may facilitate social and economic development of societies

9.2 Reading Skills

1. How do you define cultural diversity?
2. What benefits people can get being aware of cultural diversity?
3. What challenges or disadvantages do you get from cultural diversity?

Dear teacher!

Students may give answers to the above questions based on the information in the reading passage in the Unit. But encourage them also to add their own ideas to deeply understand the concept, its benefits and challenges. We have added for you some ideas about the definitions, benefits and challenges of cultural diversity from an internet source.

1. Definitions

Culture is a broad term that encompasses beliefs, values, norms, behaviors, and overall can be understood as our “way of being.” When you go out into the world, you will come into contact with people from different backgrounds and walks of life. It’s a good rule of thumb to honor cultural diversity with your actions.

Therefore, Cultural diversity is synonymous with multiculturalism. Multiculturalism is defined by the Encyclopedia Britannica as, “the view that cultures, races, and ethnicities, particularly those of minority groups, deserve special acknowledgment of their differences within a dominant political culture.”

Cultural diversity looks like this:

- In A Workplace: Having a multilingual team, having a diverse range of ages working together, having policies that are vocally against discrimination, etc.
- In A School Setting: Having students from all over the world (like at the University of the People), being accepting of all religious practices and traditions that students part take in, supporting students to share their cultures with one another, etc.

2. Benefits

Recognizing that there is a large amount of cultures that exist

- Respecting each other's differences
- Acknowledging that all cultural expressions are valid
- Valuing what cultures have to bring to the table
- Empowering diverse groups to contribute
- Celebrating differences, not just tolerating them
- Diverse cultural perspectives can inspire creativity and drive innovation
- Local market knowledge and insight makes a business more competitive and profitable
- Cultural sensitivity, insight, and local knowledge means higher quality, targeted marketing
- Drawing from a culturally diverse talent pool allows an organization to attract and retain the best talent
- A diverse skills base allows an organization to offer a broader and more adaptable range of products and services
- Diverse teams are more productive and perform better
- Greater opportunity for personal and professional growth

Its benefits in education

- Deep learning
- Confidence and growth
- Preparation for the future
- More empathy

3. Challenges

- Colleagues from some cultures may be less likely to let their voices be heard
- Integration across multicultural teams can be difficult in the face of prejudice or negative cultural stereotypes
- Professional communication can be misinterpreted or difficult to understand across languages and cultures
- Navigating visa requirements, employment laws, and the cost of accommodating workplace requirements can be difficult
- Different understandings of professional etiquette
- Conflicting working styles across teams

Achieving a Goal

About a year ago, I was watching the Olympics, and I decided that I wanted to become a runner. I knew I should set an achievable goal, so I decided to train for a 5K race. My parents were surprised when I told them about my goal, because I had never been interested in running before. In fact, I had never run more than a mile, and I had always been very slow. My friends thought I was joking. Everyone assumed that I would quit after a week.

Fortunately, I proved them all wrong. I did two things to achieve my goal. First, I went online and researched a good training plan. I found a website that helps you plan workouts. You start by walking, and then you gradually start running. After that, I joined a local running group. We ran in the park twice a week, and I made friends who had also decided to run a 5K.

Grammar

Three months later, I achieved my goal: I ran in my first race. I didn't win, but I ran the whole way, so I was proud of myself. Since then, I have run in several races. I have also started training for a longer run. My next goal is to run in a 10K race. My friends have stopped laughing at me, and a few of them have even asked me to help them start.

Sample answers

In the modern world, people use the social media very much; the media have become international means of communication. However, people's utilization of the social media in Ethiopia seems to be limited compared to their use in different countries. For instance, in 2021, only 39.38% of the population uses Twitter. I think this is very small when we see the role the medium plays. I imagine that Facebook utilization is also limited. Surprisingly, I see that people's use of YouTube in Ethiopia is inadequate. I think they should use much more than this.

Example paragraphs of polite agreement and disagreement to the statement the different regions of Ethiopia have best staple foods.

Polite agreement

In my opinion, the different regions of Ethiopia have special staple foods that are delicious. For instance, the Tuhlo in Adigrat and the Kocho in Gurage are delicious foods. When one eats the kocho with chopped up meat called kitfo locally, he/ she may think that there is no equal food stuff to it anywhere. Tuhlo has also very good taste and its food service tradition is special which is really very much attractive. Fish desserts in Arba Minch, the mitin shiro in different regions and the chicken stew are all delicious food stuffs everyone enjoys to eat. So, I feel that we have variety of delicious food stuffs which are much enjoyable in Ethiopia.

Polite disagreement

The different cultural foods in Ethiopia may be enjoyable to many Ethiopians. But, I think the staple foods may not be delicious to tourists who haven't experienced such kinds of food stuffs. Tourists who come from different corners of the world may have experienced different cultural foods of their own. To such kind of people, eating new food stuffs may not be easy. So, catering them with other choices seems mandatory.
